NEW ORGANIZATION FOR WEST CENTRALVILLE

If plans now under way materialize, West Centralville will soon have a social and fraternal organization similar to the C.M.A.C. that is an association, which while providing amusement for its members will also provide sick and death benefits, for it is being planned to change over the Centralville Social club into a fraternal and social society.

The matter, which has been in the air for some time, is expected to be thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the club, which will be held this evening. It was learned today that the club purposes to appoint a committee to confer with the insurance commission of the state relative to data concerning insurance rates and other carrying out of the plans.

The Centralville Social club was founded on June 8, 1905, with the following charter members: Edmund Traver, Joseph Traver, Maxine Lapine, Rosalie Lussier, Denis Courtois, George Dion, Albert Marcotte, Arlene Trudel, Adelaide Larose, Alexandre Gervais, Alphonse Dalphond, Ferdinand and Edmond Lambert.

The club has a membership of over 200 and owns a fine home at the junction of Lakewood avenue and West Sixth street. It is felt by many members of the organization that the club could easily be changed into a fraternal society in order to provide sick and death benefits. The plan is to issue insurance policies on the regular rate of insurance in this state, and it is believed that such a move would be very beneficial to the organization and its members.

The present officers of the club are: Edmund Traver, president; Fred Traver, vice president; Ferdinand Traver, recording secretary; and Edmond Lambert, financial secretary.

HEADACHES AND NERVOUS SPELLS

Mrs. Read Tells How She Recovered Her Health and Strength

In cases of nervousness where there are indications of thin blood it is always wise to suspect that the nervousness is caused by the anemic condition and to try building up the blood as a means of relief. The nerves are so dependent upon the blood for nourishment that when the blood becomes thin and poor the nerves inevitably suffer. This may result in widely different nervous symptoms all of which may disappear when the blood is made rich and red.

"I had a general breaking down of my health," says Mrs. Ella Read, of No. 26 Smith street, Portland, Me., "and the doctor said my trouble was too little blood. I had no color, was reduced in weight and had little strength. I was completely tired out and was extremely nervous. At times I suffered severe nervous spells which would leave me with a headache. My appetite was poor and I seemed to grow worse all the time.

"I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the paper and as nothing else seemed to restore my strength I decided to try them. I could see they were benefiting me before I had used them a month and I kept on until I felt so much better that I did not need them. I have used them since as a tonic and they have always helped me. I gladly recommend them to others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength and vigor because they build up the blood and revitalize the nerves. They are useful in sick and nervous headaches, neuritis, sciatica, neuritis and are recommended for children who show a tendency to St. Vitus' dance. They often restore strength and health where other treatment fails.

INGROWN TOE NAIL

Turns Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail produces inflammation and pain and so loosens the tender, sensitive skin underneath to the nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The name and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent life insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the following statement: "That one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, a small and large. However, if you wish to get the best of this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

LITTLE FISH STORY IN THE DISTRICT COURT

It was a case of fish in the district court this morning when a well known proprietor of a local market was called before Judge Fisher in answer to two violations of the fish laws, keeping unwholesome fish, and keeping cold storage fish for sale without displaying proper signs. On the first charge he was found not guilty after a lengthy hearing, and on the second charge a finding of guilty was returned and the case placed on file.

Fish Inspector Sullivan of Boston was the chief witness for the government, and he stated that he visited the downtown market of the defendant a month or two ago and found a quantity of salmon and haddock which did not conform to the pure food regulations. Some of the fish, he said, was chilled and discolored and wholly unfit for eating. The proprietor, when called to the stand, testified that the goods looked perfectly all right to him, although some may have been chilled by transportation. The court based its finding on the question of intent and stated that there was no evidence of wilful intent on the part of the proprietor or his clerks of selling unwholesome food, and for this reason he was not "hooked"—which makes this a sort of fish story.

Board of Trustees of Memorial Auditorium

The ex-service men will secure money for the memorial tablets by public subscription if the city is too poor to provide it and expressed the feeling that a public hearing on the matter would be advisable and has been seriously felt no public subscription campaign is necessary and Mayor John J. Donovan intimated that he might be able to transfer $2000 from his general expense fund to assist in the work.

The trustees made it very plain that they are willing and anxious to pay every honor to the memory of those men and women of Lowell who gave their lives in all the wars in which this country has participated, but they felt it is a task that cannot be completed within one year.

Opening of Meeting

Trustees present were Chairman Charles H. Hobson, Major Frederick A. Estes, Thomas P. Boulger and Mayor Donovan.

The hearing got under way, with Mr. O'Donoghue opening for the Legion committee. He brought to the trustees the appreciation of Lowell post for past considerations and expressed the hope that future connections would be harmonious and along a line of cooperative action.

"Representing the Legion post of Lowell, this committee comes before you to request the removal of the plaque in Trophy hall bearing the names of the building commission, architect and builder to some other appropriate and conspicuous place in the building," he said, "and thus allow us to go ahead with plans which will eventually make of Trophy hall that which its name implies and a real memorial to our soldier and sailor dead of the Civil, Spanish and World wars."

"It is the belief of the Legion that the name of an living man should have a place in Trophy hall," he continued, "but should hold only names of Lowell men and women who were killed or who died in the service of their country, trophies of war, such as battleflags and other mementoes and the names of men who won the distinguished service cross or the congressional medal of honor, but in their cases, only after death."

Mr. O'Donoghue said he could not agree with Mr. Hobson that it would be an insult to the men who built the Auditorium to remove this bronze tablet from the Hall of Trophies, "although we do not wish to detract one iota from the credit due them for their accomplishments. We do believe, however, their names should be given proper prominence but not equal prominence with the names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice."

Continuing, the speaker said the Legion committee is agitating its request in no spirit of antagonism, but rather, with only the kindest of feelings.

Chairman Hobson expressed himself as in hearty sympathy with the Legion in its effort to provide proper memorials to the heroic dead and said he knows the trustees will do everything within their power and means to meet the service men's requests at all times.

"We are very anxious to have all the tablets and plaques necessary," he declared, "and we feel we cannot do too much to honor those men who gave their lives to our country. The trustees have discussed the matter of appropriate and proper tablets a number of times and we are going to pare down our expenses this year in an effort to save money enough to commence this work. I can assure you any money we can save will be used in Trophy hall and as the Legion desires in the matter of memorial tablets and plaques. We cannot expect to complete our work in Trophy hall in one year, or in two or three. We will have to do it progressively once a definite and acceptable plan is accepted."

Mayor Donovan asked if two of the men whose names are on the plaque were not service men, George H. Brown and Arthur L. Enos, and Mr. O'Donoghue replied:

"Yes, but they are living men."

Defined Word "Trophies"

Thomas P. Boulger entered the discussion at this juncture and gave a definition of the word "Trophies," meaning fruits of victory won and captured from opposing armies, such as battleflags and guns, and then said he could not understand why Trophy hall should be a place for the display of tablets containing the names of persons who had died in service.

"The heart of this building is the main auditorium where thousands of people meet together," he said, "and there is the proper place for such memorials. A vestibule of a building, and that is what trophy hall is in this building, either a vestibule or a lobby, to my mind is not the proper place for such things. I do not believe the architects ever planned Trophy hall for such a use."

Mr. Boulger emphatically declared the trustees are in perfect accord in a desire to do all possible honor to men who had died in service, "and we agree with the Legion that the very best is none too good for them," he said.

Major Estes said he had in mind that a possible place for the memorial tablets would be at either side of the stage on the face of the columns that support the proscenium arch.

Definition Accepted

Donald R. McIntyre said he agreed with the meaning of the word "Trophies" as given by Mr. Boulger and added that if the full meaning of the word was to be lived up to, the plaque should be removed to some other spot in the building.

"It certainly is not a trophy of war, it was neither won nor captured, nor is it an emblem of victory," he said, "and therefore, I believe we have won our point through Mr. Boulger's own statement."

Mr. O'Donoghue pointed out that trophies of modern warfare are usually massive and large implements of destruction and hardly could be placed has been trying for three years to get suitable memorial tablets in the building, but without success. He said he did not believe the Legion would care to discuss the matter further with the building commission. He raised the question of how long it would be necessary to wait for sufficient money to provide the tablets.

Mr. Hobson asked if he had any idea what the cost might be and the reply was about $4000.

Mr. Hobson said the trustees would be able to tell on July 1 about how much money will be available from their appropriation.

It was brought out that it would be appropriate and fine if the tablets could be in place and unveiled on Armistice day, Nov. 11.

"If the city is too poor to raise the necessary money for these tablets, the trustees would take a formal vote on the question of moving the plaque next Monday night, but Mr. Boulger felt that was hurrying matters too much, and moved to invite the building commission and Legion representatives to meet with the trustees at some time prior to April 30, and it was so voted.

Mr. Hobson said he thought the in a hall of the size of Trophy hall. He called the hall of trophies the most beautiful part of the building and said the main auditorium might be a proper place for the names of service men who returned from war, sound in body and mind, but not for those who had made the supreme sacrifice.

"The honored and hallowed spot in this building will be where these tablets are placed," said Mr. Boulger, "regardless of its structural beauty."

Removal of Tablet

Mr. McIntyre said the only request the committee present was authorized to present was the calling for the removal of the bronze tablet, although Mr. O'Donoghue added a reason for asking had to be given, which was, no one to allow the Legion to go ahead with its plans for memorial tablets.

Mr. Hobson said: "What you have read in the daily papers expresses my feelings on the removal of this plaque and I feel it is not a matter for hasty or inconsiderate discussion and resolution. He said he felt the trustees first should find out from the building commission and the architects why the tablet was hung in Trophy hall and suggested the appointment of a committee of trustees, Legionaries and outsiders interested in the building and the city, to meet and exchange ideas.

Mayor Not Ready to Vote

Mayor Donovan declared he was not ready to vote to move the plaque until he received more information concerning its origin.

"I am a member of the Legion and attended the first meeting ever held in the city. I am just as good a soldier as any of you and I will go just as far for the service men, but I want more information on the subject before I vote to move that tablet."

LOCAL OBSERVANCE OF "BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK"

Schools Will Observe Period With "Humane Day" Program of Exercises Friday—Lowell Humane Society is Doing Its Share

"Be Kind to Animals Week" is being celebrated throughout Massachusetts and the country at large. The schools of city and state will floor, of the Boston public library during the week.

Thirty-two page booklets compiled by Francis H. Rowley, president of the state organization, relating to education of the children regarding the humane treatment of all dumb animals, have been sent out to all public, and private schools of grammar grades throughout the state, and representatives of schools have also been requested to hold observations in halls of instruction to bring "Be Kind to Animals Week" to the attention of all.

The Lowell Humane society is performing its share in the anniversary observance. Today Agent Richardson received a supply of posters from the American Humane association, announcing a grand essay contest that is attracting nation-wide attention. This year cash prizes aggregating $175 are offered for posters and essays, and the co-operation of the Lowell humane organization has been requested and freely given by Mr. Richardson and his assistants at the Appleton street offices.

School authorities have been notified about the prize competitions and it is expected that many children will enter the contest.

The Lowell society will benefit fully as much as the nation-wide organization from the awakened interest in humane letters caused by these contests. Mr. Richardson said this morning. Exactly $175 in cash prizes are offered by the American Humane association's annual poster and essay competition for 1923. It is open to school children, art students and others. The object is to educate all classes of people everywhere to practice, in thought and deed, kindness to all around them particularly to children and animals. Competitors will be grouped in four divisions as follows:

Group 1—Boys and girls attending grades 1, 2, 3 and 4 in school. Group 2—Those attending grades 5, 6, 7 and 8. Group 3—Those attending high and preparatory schools. Group 4—Art students and others out of school. In each of these four groups prizes of $25, $15 and $10 are offered, $50 for each group and $200 in all. Additional prizes will be given in each of the four groups.

There will also be $100 in six special cash prizes offered by the American S.P.C.A. of New York city and the Pennsylvania S.P.C.A. Each society offers $50 to be divided in prizes of $25, $15 and $10. The American S.P.C.A. offers its prizes for the best poster, suitable for the society's usage. The Pennsylvania S.P.C.A. offers its prizes for the best posters illustrating the cruelty of trapping wild animals for furs.

There are also $125 in essay cash prizes open to Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls. Special prizes aggregating $50 for Indian schools are given in addition. All information concerning the essay contests can be obtained at the offices of the Lowell Humane society on Appleton street.

LOWELL ASSIGNMENTS MADE AT CONFERENCE

The New England Methodist conference held yesterday in Holyoke acted on numerous Lowell assignments, with the following results: Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy of the Highland Union Methodist church and Rev. John L. Wolfe of the Central M. E. church have been retained as pastor and assistant pastor, respectively, to the positions now held by them.

Rev. L. C. Buckles, pastor of the Central church, has been appointed pastor of the Church of All Nations, but the new assignment will not prevent him from continuing his present work in developing projects along the lines undertaken by him in Lowell during the past few months. Rev. John L. Cairns of St. Paul's M. E. church is transferred to Salem and Rev. C. S. Otto of Salem comes to Lowell. Rev. Karl P. Meister of the Centralville M. E. church has been appointed a member of the board of hospitals and homes, which has its headquarters in Chicago. The pastor will assume his new duties about April 25 and will relinquish his local pastorate. Rev. W. A. Kilmer of West Pittsburg has been assigned to the Centralville parish and will probably deliver his opening sermon there next Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH St. John's Episcopal church will hold its annual gathering at Colonial and Middlesex halls, Palmer street, on Wednesday afternoon and evening of April 11. The members of the church look forward to this yearly gathering and those that attend will have a day of true pleasure.

SEC. WEEKS APPROVES WAR CITATIONS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Citations for the award of distinguished service medals to the late Augustus P. Gardner, former representative from Massachusetts, who resigned as a member of congress, after the outbreak of the war to serve in the army and Dr. Harvey Cushing of Massachusetts, have been approved by Secretary Weeks.

In the case of Mr. Gardner, the citation said: "His entire service was characterized by untiring zeal, devotion to duty and marked success. His splendid example of patriotism will always serve as an inspiration to his countrymen."

Mr. Gardner first entered the service as a colonel in the adjutant general's department and later served as adjutant of the 31st division. At his own request he was appointed a major in the 121st infantry and commanded a battalion in that regiment until his death from pneumonia in a southern training camp.

Dr. Cushing, as senior consultant of surgery in the A.E.F., and in direct charge of treatment of gunshot wounds of the first army hospital during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the citation said: "The performed conspicuous and distinguished services to the government" and "his individual efforts in that capacity saved the lives of many severely wounded soldiers."

House of Commons Reassembles at London After a Short Vacation

Seldom Has an Administration Drawn More Criticism Than Present One

LONDON, April 9. (By the Associated Press.)—The most important part of the present parliamentary session begins today, when the house of commons reassembles after a short vacation. There are critical times ahead of the government. Seldom has there been an administration that has drawn more criticism from the press and the public than the present one. The government is in a very strong position, with several spare battalions at its disposal. The present state of the division is that we have been fought to a standstill, and are flattened out. The first, third and fourth brigades have been killed, 12 posts captured and six seriously wounded. The men are suffering great privations, and their morale is sinking. IRISH REBELS WEAKER

Reduced to Such Desperate Straits Summer Campaign Impossible

DUBLIN, April 10.—(By Associated Press.)—The Irish rebels have been reduced to such desperate straits that a summer campaign on their part is impossible, according to captured documents made public yesterday by the publicity department of the Free State army.

In one of the documents, the officer commanding the first southern division of the irregulars reports:

"The present state of the division is that we have been fought to a standstill, and are flattened out. The first, third and fourth brigades have been killed, 12 posts captured and six seriously wounded. The men are suffering great privations, and their morale is sinking. The enemy is in a very strong position, with several spare battalions at its disposal."

The divisional officer further says he is quite content to continue until a meeting of the republican executive committee when he desires to satisfy himself that "what we are fighting for we can win militarily," but these are the only conditions on which he is carrying on.

Extracts from the correspondence show, according to the government publicity department, what the "high thinking" irregular leaders are doing. An alleged communication from the republican general to the president dated Feb. 20 says: "The quartermaster-general is not quite clear what our minimum peace terms are. What should I say to him?"

The purported reply of the president to the republican general two days later reads: "The obvious answer is that our minimum will be the maximum that conditions will enable us to obtain. Under conditions of which it is impossible to conceive, this 'maximum' might be as low as zero. People talk sometimes as if there were nothing in question but our desires."

The captured documents are regarded as showing how decisively the situation is adjusting itself in favor of the Free State. The admission that big scale operations on the part of the irregulars are no longer possible is considered very significant.

When the peace resolution proposed by the republican deputy chief of staff, Barry, at a meeting of the republican executive committee on March 22, was defeated by only one vote, it was agreed to postpone the executive committee meeting until the time to consider the position further. This adjournment should be held, this adjournment when it is thought possible the scale might be turned against the continuance of armed opposition.

Another document is provoked by Eamon de Valera's admission in the captured documents that he was "wondered to view the tragedy through a wall of glass, powerless to intervene effectively."

"HOME BEAUTIFUL" EXPOSITION PLAN

Members of the Lowell Contractors' association met in their quarters yesterday to further their plans for the "Home Beautiful" exposition, which will be held at the Memorial Auditorium some time in May. The meeting was largely attended, and numerous suggestions were received, but inasmuch as the plans were not perfected Secretary Reuben of the association stated at the close of the meeting that there were no particulars to be made public at the present time.

The plan at present is to have a number of booths of artistic design and construction on the floor of the Auditorium, and the exposition will include everything from the laying of the foundation of a building to its completion, including electric fixtures and furniture. Local architects and many merchants are co-operating with the association to make the event a success.

Corner of Hall and Aiken Streets Where Accident Is Believed to Have Happened

abandoned by the occupants of the Buick car is an actual fact. Residents of the Webster street neighborhood have a Buick car which is reported to be burning, pull up near a dumping ground. At least one Lowell man, who lives on the way home, was found on his way home near two men jump out, open the Buick car door and drag out the body of a man and carry it across the road, leaving it in a vacant field. The man was found by a passerby, who called the police. The police found the man dead, and the car was found in a vacant field. The man was found by a passerby, who called the police. The police found the man dead, and the car was found in a vacant field.

Disposing of Victim

The police believe that the victim was promptly notified and the victim, who turned out to be Blison, was hurriedly removed to St. John's hospital, where he died shortly after 10 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness. His body of living at the boarding house on Merrimack St.

Blison was known to thousands of Lowell men and women. He was noticeable on the streets because of a peculiarly stooped back. He was a man of cleanly habits, upright in living and a strict religious man. He was a frequent visitor to numerous stores and lunchrooms in that vicinity and was liked by everybody.

Civil War Veteran

The landlady of the musician's home, Mrs. Rebecca M. Korman, 708 Merrimack street, told The Sun this morning that Mr. Blison was a civil war veteran, having been a member of several bands and playing both the cornet and the violin. He had many Lowell pupils for a decade or more, but of late had given up regular instruction work. He played in old-time Lowell bands and orchestras.

"I am 50 years old and shall play no more," he told his landlady only a few days ago.

The police investigation headed by Chief Atkinson, aided by Capt. Petrie, Lieut. Maher and Sgt. Winn, was begun immediately after the news of the tragedy came in. Today the police authorities bent all energies in a strenuous endeavor to locate the missing Buick roadster, its driver and occupants.

The police first visited the tragedy victim's boarding house and learned that Blison was never in the habit of going very far from his boarding place on Merrimack street. He was a frequent visitor to numerous stores and lunchrooms in that vicinity and was liked by everybody.

In Dying Condition

It is believed that Blison could not have been very far from his home last night and but a short time before he was found in a dying condition on the dump on Webster street. For at a clock he ate his supper in a lunchroom close by his boarding house and as late as 7:15 p.m. he was seen to enter the boarding house, about 10 o'clock last evening.

No Attempt at Robbery

The police are confident that no attempt was made to rob the musician by those who carried him to Webster street. They found no money or valuables on Blison, and no attempt was made to rob him. The police are confident that no attempt was made to rob the musician by those who carried him to Webster street.

Winchester, Ky., Citizen Cheerfully Recommends This Wonderful Remedy to All Sufferers.

His letter follows: "Burns Avenue, Winchester, Ky. I have suffered from rheumatism for three months. I tried several remedies without receiving any benefit whatever. A friend advised me to try ALLENRUH as it had cured him. I bought three bottles from the George Drug Co., this city. When I began taking this medicine I was unable to do any work. I could neither dress myself nor raise my hand to comb my hair. I am now almost well and feel confident this last of the three bottles I am now taking will completely cure me. I can cheerfully recommend this truly wonderful remedy to any rheumatism sufferer."

Signed A. A. Keer.

ALLENRUH has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony were intense and pitiful and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of ALLENRUH, who for many years suffered from acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRUH decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee the first pint bottle to show appreciable results or money back in every instance. All druggists can supply you.

Chick Atkinson said this noon that the police have not found evidence of foul play, or any evidence that the musician had been robbed. He believes it was a case of automobilist injuring a pedestrian, taking him toward North Chelmsford. The intention of removing the man to a hospital, then, booming frightened, decided to dispose of the victim in a far locality and effect escape from notoriety.

Witnessed Accident

Lowell, Tremblay, a truck driver for Joseph Farber, low cream manufacturer in Truro, and residing at 10 Aiken avenue, claims to have witnessed an automobile accident at the corner of Hall and Aiken streets last evening and his description of the victim of the accident corresponds with that of Oliver C. Blison, who was found dying in the bushes off Merrimack street at about 8 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Tremblay informed The Sun this morning that Tremblay went out delivering ice cream in the early part of the evening and when he returned to the factory at about 10 o'clock, he informed his employer that he had witnessed a very bad accident at the junction of Hall and Aiken streets. Mr. Tremblay is alleged to have said that just as he was to round the corner of Hall and Aiken streets he saw a large car with the curtains drawn, strike a short old man, knocking him to the ground. The machine was brought to a stop, but the engine of the car was kept running with the chauffeur at the wheel. One of the occupants alighted and carried the unconscious form of the old man into the machine and the car sped along through Aiken street toward Merrimack street. Mr. Tremblay also stated that he had taken a sharp turn in order to avoid colliding with the big machine. He said he did not interfere as he thought the injured man was being taken to a hospital.

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonials about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. Adventures of The Twins

THE TWINS GET LOST

THE TWINS SAT DOWN TO THINK

Sugar-Plum Land was full of good things. The road was made of fudge, the fences were rock-candy, the trees were lolly-pops, and the flowers were stick-candy with all sorts of fruit on them.

One tree had ice cream cones on it, another tree grew nothing but sundae-drops—all sorts of sundae-drops, including low sundae-drops, Mexican sundae-drops, little ship sundae-drops, banana-split sundae-drops, strawberry sundae-drops and every other kind of sundae that ever came to a boy or girl's imagination.

Another tree grew peanuts in striped paper-bags, another pop-corn tree grew in red tissue paper. Another tree grew ice cream sodas with two straws each, while still another tree bore boxes of cracker jack and glasses of pink lemonade.

On their way to the Cut-Out Lady's house, Nancy and Nick got hungry.

"What shall we have, Nick?" said Nancy. "An ice cream cone, a sundae, or a ball of pop-corn?"

"Pop-corn!" said Nick.

So he climbed the pop-corn tree and broke off two nice round red tissue-paper balls. The pop-corn was fresh and sticky and disappeared down two little red throats like magic.

"Now, I'm thirsty," said Nancy.

"Then we'll have some soda!" said Nick. Nancy took vanilla and Nick took raspberry—and that was that.

"Now I'm hungry again," said Nick.

"Sundae!" declared Nancy.

So they had a sundae apiece with to things on it.

And then, being thirsty again, they had some pop.

"Now let's go on!" said Nick. "Yes, let's!" said Nancy looking a little pale.

But what do you think? They had lost their way. The sign on the road pointed to Caster Land one way and to Plaster Land the other way. Wasn't it dreadful!

The twins sat down to think what it would be best to do.

RECRUIT CATCHER HAS CHANCE TO STICK

By NEA Service

TAMPA, Fla., April 10.—If ever a player collided over baseball, that individual is Bill Hargrave, recruit catcher with the Nationals.

Baseball experts say that a hitting for the game is essential to success. If that is the case Bill Hargrave is destined to be a big star, for literally he loves it.

Hargrave came to the Nationals rather unheralded, but no recruit has a better chance to linger around in the big show, even though his efforts for a time may be confined to warming up pitchers.

Hargrave simply overpowers baseball. When back of the bat he keeps up a running fire of conversation. When not working baseball, he either slugs balls in the outfield or cavorts around the infield. Most of the time he is laughing.

By order of the Board of Directors,

ARTHUR E. CLARK, Secretary.

catchers consider mask, protector, glove and shin guards as full equipment, but not Hargrave. In his hip pocket he always carries a fielder's glove.

"A busy young man that fellow Hargrave," was the suggestion made to Manager Bush.

"I should think he was," replied the National's manager, "we have to chase him off the field, practice is never over with him."

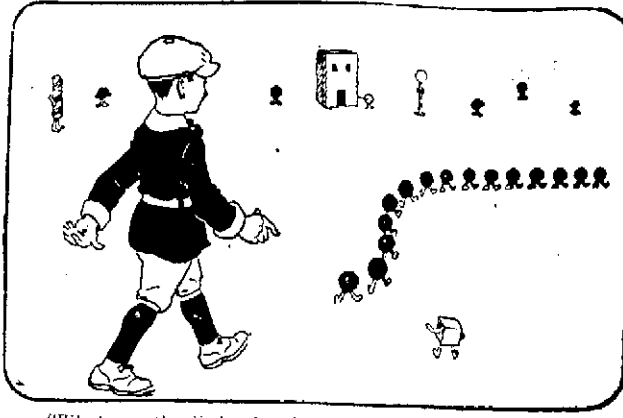

"Last year, with New Haven," aside from catching 56 games, he played 23 at third base, 16 at second and the same number in the outfield. At other times he acted as pinch hitter, like those busy guys," concluded Bush as he chased "Red" to the showers. He is sure to be known as Red because of the color of the locks.

Hargrave played with New Haven in the Eastern League last year. Bill Donovan managed that club. No doubt it was on Bill's recommendation that Hargrave was taken on by the Nationals.

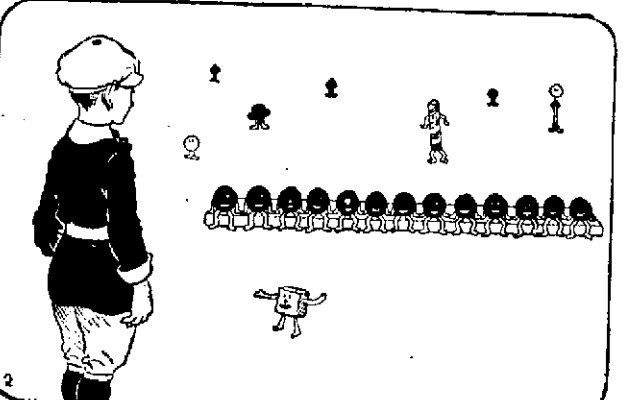

CAT NEAR SUICIDE

Jack Daw in Candy Land. Chapter 17

"What are the little cherries going to do now?" Jack asked Caramel. "Well," came the reply, "first they will dry themselves by going to their little waiting station, where they wait until they are dry." Jack noticed that the cherries were walking away then, and he followed them.

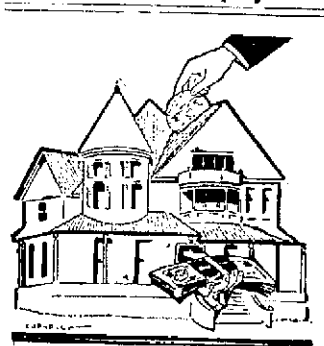

Just a short distance from Chocolate Lake the cherries came upon a long white board. They all sat down to rest and dry. This was the waiting station. "And what will they do next?" asked Jack. "Why, they will go over to a big white box and jump in, and then be shipped away," replied Caramel.

And almost as Caramel stopped talking the cherries were on their way. The white box was soon reached and Jack watched them all hop inside. Finally the cover was put on by two big peppermint sticks and then Jack noticed that a group of jelly beans had gathered nearby and were watching him. (Continued.)

LOWELL LEGIONAIRES MAKE FORMAL REQUEST FOR REMOVAL OF AUDITORIUM PLAQUE

Representatives of Local Post State Their Case at Meeting of Memorial Auditorium Trustees—Much Discussion Concerning Memorial Tablets—Trustees Will Give Legion Their Answer Later

On some date prior to April 30, the board of trustees of the Memorial Auditorium will have received a formal request from the representatives of the Lowell post of the American Legion, members of the Auditorium building commission and the architects to meet with them to discuss the request of the Legion that the bronze plaque on which are inscribed the names of the men who supervised the erection of the building be moved from its present place in the Hall of Trophies and hung elsewhere within the building.

This conference will be arranged as the result of a meeting of the trustees last night at which a formal request for the removal of the plaque was presented by a committee from Lowell post, including Donald H. MacIntyre, James F. O'Donoghue and Eugene L. Poirer. Other members of the Legion present were Col. Charles A. Stevens and Stephen C. Garrity, but the former did not speak upon the matter.

"DOPE" RAID IN CHINATOWN

Hatchet Hurlled at Boston Police and Doors Barri-caded Against Them

Officers Break Through and Seize Opium Gum and Paste, Pipes, Etc.

Two Men and One Woman Arrested—Officer Narrowly Escaped Injury

BOSTON, April 10.—Chinatown was raided by police seeking narcotic drug resorts and supplies, early today, and, while a horde of disturbed Chinese swarmed on stairways, a hatchet was hurled at the officers and doors were barricaded against them on a signal sounded by a bell. Sergeant Caverly of the drug squad barely escaped the hatchet.

The police seized opium gum and paste, pipes and other paraphernalia valued at $1500 from a house on Beech street, where four bunks for smokers were found. They arrested two men there, Goon Heim and Lee Wong, the latter alleged to be the proprietor.

On Hudson street, they raided another house where Helen Goon Wah, youthful wife of a Chinese, was arrested, charged with possession of narcotic drugs and needles, and a quantity of the latter seized.

Part of the drugs seized at the Beech street place was said to be consigned to Brockton.

NEW TARIFF LAW HAD NO EFFECT ON SUGAR

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Harding has received informal assurance from the tariff commission that the new tariff law has had no effect on the price of sugar. It was indicated at the White House today that the commission would confer with him on the subject some time during the week.

GOMPERS HITS DECISION

A. F. of L. Head Talks on Ruling Invalidating the Minimum Wage Law

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The supreme court's decision invalidating the District of Columbia minimum wage law, was declared today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor to have basely set forth the "reactionary employer viewpoint of wage earners."

"Five justices," a bare majority of one," said Mr. Gompers, in a formal statement, have taken from the women and girl wage earners, the protection that guaranteed them something approaching a fair wage and fair hours of work.

"The court says that labor is to be bought just as if it were a commodity, to buy the labor of a woman in the district is now like buying pigs feet in a butcher shop, according to the learned Justice Sutherland, who wrote the decision.

"All progressive men and women must resent the language used by the court in this decision. It demands humanity. Women and girl wage earners are to be bought over the counter. Thus does the court put human beings in the class of commodities to be the subject of highly organized, powerful commercial traffic. It is appalling and almost beyond comprehension that such language and such reasoning could be written into a decision of our court of last resort.

"It is noteworthy that Justice Taft dissented. That Justice Taft did not hesitate to express his opinions, was shown in the child labor decision, but he finds this demeaning of women workers impossible.

The whole proceeding is shocking and I trust that the coming congress will find some way to extend effective protection to the women workers of the District of Columbia and to all states that may hereafter enact such protective legislation.

"It may be amiss to point out at this time that his decision harmonizes exactly with the logic which supports the demand of an aristocratic woman's organization for a blanket amendment to remove all legislative inequality between men and women, the effect of which would be to annul all laws seeking to protect women from some of the evils and results of industry. The court takes advantage of that position even before it is presented formally in law. This decision is an amazing forecast of what would follow such an enactment.

Rumor That Election Commission is Deadlocked on Question of Electing a Chairman

RATIFY CHESTER CONCESSIONS

Turkish Nationalist Assembly Approves Chester R. R. and Mining Concessions

Kemalists Grant Huge Concession After 20 Years of Effort by Americans

ANGORA, April 10.—(By the Associated Press) The Turkish Nationalist Assembly has ratified the so-called Chester railway and mining concessions. Negotiations for the "Chester concession" in Turkey, which includes the development of the Mosul oil region, and the construction of 1200 miles of railroad in the Mesopotamian belt, were first instituted by President Roosevelt. It takes its name from the late Admiral Coby M. Chester, now retired, who was sent to Turkey in 1908, to obtain for United States interests certain valuable property in the Turkish oil producing district.

The former Turkish government some time ago approved the grant, but action by the nationalist government at Ankara has been awaited.

American capital would be used, under the agreement to extend the Bagdad railway to the borders of Persia. Continued to Page Three

FIRE CHIEF TALKS TO HIS OFFICERS

All officers in the fire department were called before Chief Edward P. Saunders at headquarters this forenoon to discuss matters of general interest within the department. It was the first conference of its kind ever held, but others will follow, as the chief believes harmony, efficiency and general benefits will result. The chief talked to the officers this morning on the importance of drills in the houses, ventilating at fires and conduct of men on duty.

PRES. HARDING HOPES TO VISIT ALASKA

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Harding hopes to visit Alaska this summer when he goes to the Pacific coast on his speech-making trip. Although definite arrangements have not been made, it was said at the White House today that he probably would leave for the trip about June 20 and reach Alaska about July 15.

At the same time, it was declared that the president would not make the trip as a political candidate. It was asserted that he wanted to avoid in every way possible the appearance of going into the west as a political candidate.

STUYVESANT FISH DEAD

Banker and Former President of Illinois Central R. R. Drops Dead in Bank

NEW YORK, April 10.—Stuyvesant Fish, banker and former president of the Illinois Central railroad, died suddenly today.

Mr. Fish, whose financial battles many times attracted the keenest attention of the business world, had his last big controversy over control of the Illinois Central railroad about 15 years ago.

At that time he was president of the road and locked horns with Edward H. Harriman as to whose interest should hold sway. The fight resulted in the retirement of Mr. Fish as head of the Illinois Central, but it became a director of the road in 1917, and president in 1918.

After his fight with Harriman he entered most of his attention on banking and insurance. He was a member of the monetary conference created by the Indianapolis monetary conference in 1917, served as president of the American Railway association and was chairman of the seventh international railway conference held in Washington in 1919.

"RED MONDAYS" WEEKLY
Many Socialistic Experiments Being Practiced in Yucatan

MEXICO CITY, April 10.—Yucatan's "Red Mondays"—when the socialists gather to hear speeches and witness public demonstrations—were among the phases of the new governmental experiment in the southernmost part of the country which has attracted the attention of D. Alfredo L. Palacios, the Argentine socialist. He was back in this city today after several weeks' tour in the state.

"Red Mondays" is observed weekly, Senator Palacios said. He asserted that he knew of no other place in the entire world where so many socialistic experiments are actually being practiced as in Yucatan.

SECRETARY OF STATE MAY ACT

Has Right to Deputize Assistant to Cast the Deciding Vote

Board Will Meet This Week in Attempt to Affect Organization

Under the special legislative act which created the Lowell election commission, the secretary of state may be called upon to deputize one of his assistants to come to Lowell and cast a vote to break a deadlock which is now said to exist on the question of electing a chairman of the commission for the ensuing year.

It was rumored at city hall today that the four members of the commission, Messrs. Hugh C. McGee, J. Omer Allard, Thomas H. Braden and Joseph H. Maguire are equally split on the question of choosing a chairman, with Mr. McGee, the present clerk, each holding two votes. A meeting of the commission for organization is scheduled for some time this week, it is said, and if the deadlock still exists, it will be within the right of the secretary of state to name an assistant to vote to break it and elect a chairman.

No member of the election commission would talk on the matter today, although the rumor was widespread that the deadlock was a reality. It is understood that the board attempted to organize last week, but no member received a majority vote for the chairmanship.

NINE STATES JOIN MASS.

Friends of Court in Case to Challenge Constitutionality of Maternity Law

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Nine states—Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Indiana, Kentucky, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Virginia—died in the supreme court today, a joint brief as friends of the court in the case brought by the state of Massachusetts, to challenge the constitutionality of the maternity law.

The issue presented in the international court proposal it was said, had in the opinion of the president present somewhat befuddled by the friends of the league who endeavored to find in it a possibility of getting the United States into the league.

DENIAL BY HARDING

No Logic That Adhesion to World Court Would Put U. S. Into League

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Harding was said at the White House today to be wholly unable to discover any logic in arguments advanced by some quarters that adhesion by the United States to the permanent court of international justice would put the United States into the League of Nations, "through the backdoor."

EVIDENCE OF ALLEGED RUM-RUNNING PLOT

BOSTON, April 10.—Half a dozen witnesses from Pawtucket, Providence and Newport, R. I., and others from this city were on hand today when the federal grand jury went into session to hear evidence regarding an alleged rum running plot of wide scope. Owen McKenna, special treasury agent, who has conducted an investigation into reports of extensive smuggling of liquor into this country from Scotland and elsewhere, was the first witness heard.

The grand jury was called in special session after Mrs. Lena Costello of this city and Alexander Goldberg and John Perlo, both of Montreal, had been arrested on charges of conspiring to smuggle liquor and held in heavy bonds.

DRACUT MAN ADMITS HE DROVE CAR THAT KILLED BISSON

Elmore Pierce Confesses to Police After Long Drilling That His Car Struck Aged Violin Teacher at Corner of Aiken and Hall Streets—Bisson Was Found Dying in Vacant Lot Off Princeton Street

Elmore L. Pierce, 45, married, living at 94 Greenmont avenue, Dracut, confessed to the local police this afternoon, after a long grilling by Capt. Petrie and Det. Moller, that he drove the automobile that struck down Oliver C. Bisson, aged violin teacher, the corner of Aiken and Hall streets last evening and took him to a spot off the Princeton boulevard near Webster street, where his body was found in a dying condition, with death coming later at a hospital.

Pierce claims he thought the man was drunk and did not realize he was seriously injured when he left him in the machine at the time he was found. He was charged with manslaughter.

He told the police he left his home in Dracut shortly after 7 o'clock and when crossing Aiken street bridge followed behind a large truck. When the corner in question was reached he said he saw the old man half run out in the street, with his head down, and his car struck him with one of the mudguards. With the assistance of several bystanders, Pierce and his son placed Bisson in the machine and drove off.

"I thought he was drunk, I did not know he was seriously injured," he repeated over and over again to the police.

Pierce was picked up by the police when a man who claims to have seen a car bearing Massachusetts registration number 222,794 knock down an old man at the corner of Hall and Aiken streets last evening. This same witness also alleges that he assisted the driver of the car in placing the old man in the machine and that he presumed that the operator was going to take him to a hospital.

Inquiries at the office of the state highway commission in Boston brought the information that car number 222,794, a seven-passenger Studebaker, was the property of Pierce.

In the automobile when examined at the police station, was found a blanket stained with what the police believe to be human blood and several dents were found in the right front mudguard. Pierce told the police he had no connection with the affair whatever.

HON. JOHN JACOB ROGERS ADDRESS-ES LOCAL ROTARIANS

Congressman Discusses Foreign Entanglements—Declares in Favor of French in Ruhr Controversy—There is Nothing the United States Can Do in Europe at Present

Hon. John Jacob Rogers, congressman from the Fifth district, was known in Lowell, in Massachusetts and in the United States, as an able statesman.

Mr. Rogers paid his compliments to the club and then switched on to his main subject, "European Entanglements of the Moment."

Before getting into the main topic of discussion, Congressman Rogers compared the Paris peace conference with that held in Vienna more than 100 years ago, and stated that in his opinion, although "open" conventions openly arrived at were unheard of at that time and the diplomacy then was of the "hard-boiled" type, they really succeeded in keeping Europe out of a large war for more than 100 years, while the Paris conference did not even stop the wars that were then being on and have kept on during the four years that have elapsed since that time.

In dealing with the "Foreign Entanglements of the Present," Mr. Rogers discussed them from three definite angles. The attitude of France towards Germany was one, the attitude of Great Britain towards the Ruhr occupation was another, and the American attitude towards mixing with these discussions was the last.

"I want first to indicate," said the speaker, "the relationship between France and Germany at the moment and what the relation of other powers towards the same problem is, even

Mrs. Read Tells How She Recovered Her Health and Strength

In cases of nervousness where there are indications of thin blood it is always wise to suspect that the nervousness is caused by the anemic condition and to try building up the blood as a means of relief. The nerves are so dependent upon the blood for nourishment that when the blood becomes thin and poor the nerves invariably suffer. This may result in widely different nervous symptoms all of which may dis-

"I had a general breaking down of my health," says Mrs. Ella Read, of No. 1 Smith Street, Portland, Me., "and the doctor said my trouble was too little blood. I had no color, was reduced to a skeleton, and lost all my strength. I was completely tired out, and was extremely nervous. At times I suffered very nervous spells which would leave me with a headache. My appetite failed and I seemed to grow worse all the time.

"I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the paper and as nothing else seemed to restore my strength I decided to try them. I could see they were beneficial, and began to take them a month and then on until I felt so much better that I did not need them. I have used them since as a tonic and have always helped me. I gladly recommend them to others."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

This is "All Nationality Week" at B. F. Keith's theatre and the entertainment calendar provided auspicious load-up first performances of elaborate vaudeville of the best selections. Yesterday afternoon and night, the theatre was at a premium for the opening of the gala week. Plugs of all nations used in lavish fashion in ante-room and main lobby, as well as on the outside entrance of the Keith theatre, made a most attractive picture for the Monday night crowd.

The "gala band" was extended to demonstrate fashion by Manager Keith. The band was of courteous members. An extra good feature was the variety of latest catchy music of quality purveyed by the Keith orchestra of musicians under the clever leadership of Joseph Prellotte.

Next Saturday will be known as "All-America Day," a special program to be featured in a special program to the week of attractive offerings in the Keith celebration line.

The regular vaudeville bill of fare has not been surprised this season. The list embraces a novelty comedy, excellent singing and dancing, colorful plots of charm and sentiment and many splendid musical numbers. The big No. 1 feature of the week's program for Keith regulars and newcomers is "Little Driftwood," with Florence Gast and company, bringing splendid dancing, quartet singing, and new comedy. Miss Gast shows as an uncommonly attractive and competent performer and sensational tone dancer. The presentation of this act went big. Lester Crawford and Helen Broderick appeared in the play of "In a Smile or Two," introducing a special recipe for live-wire fun-making of top class. Miss Broderick sings in a duet with a new slow-motion duet and wins. Speed featured this number that introduced happiness goods in rare measure. Crawford also shines in the comedy work "all clean."

Robert Henry Hodge, character actor, brings something new and delightful in well known as "Bill Bithers, Lawyer." A really uproarious plot that brings in a cool-sized comedy of all the fun-making in the house. The plot is thin, but Hodge makes the most of it in the lead and old-time character work of finished performance.

Miss Maude Ryan and Charles Innes have an offering with Miss Ryan leading and introducing comedy featuring of all the fun-making in the house. "Nationality Week" bill in excellent fashion. An excellent combination also was the act presented by the Pesci Duo, male and female, with songs, sharp solos and "combination" of high order.

Small dogs who pose in artistically under colored lights, delighted the audience, particularly the feminine side with Miss. Later, superlative dancing the great act in adequate fashion. One of the clearest circus acts on the Keith boards today—Kay, Hamlin & Kay, aerial acrobats, gave something worth seeing. They came through the air from trapezes were featured.

HALLO THEATRE

Frank Mayo in "Wolf Law" is the feature of the week at the Hallo theatre for the first part of this week. The program opened to a large audience yesterday afternoon and all were impressed with its excellence.

As a counter attraction for the first two days, Manager George Hammond has Grace Darmond and Mahlon Hamilton in another attractive story entitled "The Midnight Guest." This also is exceedingly well done and makes an excellent running mate for the feature attraction.

"Dr. Jack," an exciting melodrama which is thoroughly well acted and which holds the suspense right up to the end. It is the type of picture which appeals to any audience anywhere. If the spectators have the slightest leaning towards a story in which intrigue and counterplots feature. The action of the story takes place in late sixties and the outstanding effects are well developed in good atmosphere. One of the exciting features of the production is the costumed horse race, in which the southern farmers and wealthy land owners bet everything they own. Another strong feature comes when the hero is admitted into the camp of the "outlaws," a band of fugitives from justice hold forth a safety and security, but where each must stand up and fight his own battles, either with a gun or the fist.

As "Jeff Cortez," Frank Mayo excels in the attractive production. He first wins success by riding home a winner in the country horse race, but the pleasure ends up in a shooting in which Jeff figures conspicuously. He is forced to fight his way into the band of fugitives and from here on the action develops rapidly until the close.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Dr. Jack," featuring Harold Lloyd, is the big attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first part of this week. "Dr. Jack" is fifty minutes of clean, wholesome, laugh-producing fun. The fun begins with the first picture and continues right up to the finish with hardly a let-up. Harold Lloyd with his bone-rimmed spectacles alone can create considerable comedy and add to his own personality a play such as "Dr. Jack" and the result is side-splitting comedy.

The play opens in the home of an extremely wealthy man who has a daughter, the sick-little-well-girl, who has been under a doctor's care for over four years because her father pays him handsomely and he refuses to let her get well for fear he will lose his big graft. The scene then shifts to a small town where Dr. Jack holds sway. Several incidents of a country doctor's life are shown, intermingled with comedy, and the doctor's cures are not the result of medicine, but plain ordinary good sense. The sick-little-well-girl meets Dr. Jack while on her way home from a sanitarium and the result is love at first sight.

The high-priced doctor who is tired of the high-priced doctor who does nothing but keep the girl sick and he comes in a specialist, Dr. Jack, who immediately tells the girl that she is all right and just needs a little excitement. He is too urgent, though, and as a result is ordered to leave the house the next morning. He plans on some method of staying on and he exits, and the news of the escape of a lunatic gives him his opportunity. He dresses as a wild man and in so many comedy scenes that follow it is the girl who takes a leading part and her father finally notices that she is not all right but by the excitement. The high-priced doctor leaves, and Dr. Jack and the sick-little-well-girl win.

"The Second Fiddle" is a play of more serious character, although there are many comedy touches throughout. The scenes that lighten the tension. It was written by Frank Tuttle and directed the making of the movie version. Glen Hunter and Mary Astor have the leading parts in this number.

This is a story of New England life in which two brothers, strangely contrasted, hold leading roles. One, "Jim Bradley," is the working type and his brother, "Herbert," a college boy, very superior to him otherwise. A man tells his daughter and goes. While a posse is out looking for him, the doctor's daughter, "Polly," comes to the Bradley home for protection. The murderer enters the Bradley house and Herbert leaves Jim with an empty gun. To keep the posse, the murderer follows Jim. Jim is hit on the head and the murderer escapes. Herbert returns and finds the gun in Jim's hand. He is finally cleared and he and Polly are united.

at the vampire's feet and had it transplanted upon. His heart is broken and he is placed in a sanitarium, and for this his brother takes it upon himself to publicly denounce womanhood in general and the cause of his brother's downfall in particular. He is giving one of his denunciatory addresses in a cafe one night when Sappho enters, becomes interested in the young man and extends to him an invitation to accompany her to her apartment. He goes, and falls in love, disregarding the innocent little girl to whom some time before he had been engaged. His weak, vampire love of other days, but Sappho is experiencing her first real love. Word finally reaches the brother in the asylum. He escapes, and finding his brother and Sappho at a famous resort, looks his brother in the eye and in a frenzied mood, kills Sappho. The climactic effect of this unusual closing scene is wonderful. Miss Negri, emotional in the extreme, portrays her part to perfection and bears out the contention that "Mad Love" is perhaps her best starring vehicle.

The second feature of the Strand bill is "The Great Night," a story of a famous New York, in which the star plays true love to perfection and bears out the contention that "Mad Love" is perhaps her best starring vehicle.

"GETTING
GERTIE'S
GARTER"

OPERA HOUSE

"Getting Gertie's Garter," a three-act comedy, was written by Avery Harwood and J. H. Wood for laughing purposes. This play was given its first production at the Opera House yesterday by the Al Luttringer Stock players and it was so judged by the attitude of the audience at last evening's performance. It may be said right here that the authors did not fall in their work for from curtain rise to the end of the play it was one continuous roar of laughter. Another remark that may be made concerning the Opera House is that the spoken drama has its place in Lowell, for the large theatre was crowded last evening.

Coming back to "Getting Gertie's Garter," it may be said that the play is one of the best efforts of the popular company in a long time and it will surely create a great impression here. It is a laugh-producing vehicle that does not fall and the manner in which credit upon both the performers and those in charge of the company.

The play unfolds the story of the trying troubles of an erstwhile lover to get back to the girl he loves and to a former sweetheart. The lover, Ken Wallick, made the mistake of letting the letter he received, telling him to come back for the girl, fall into the hands of his wife. The latter suspecting something wrong, snarled at him and Billy, who is happily married to Sappho, sister of Gertie's husband, and insists on becoming compromised in order to get back at her husband. This happens on the evening of Gertie's wedding and while the couple are enjoying what they believe a long honeymoon in a farmhouse far away from the city. Ken follows the newly wedded couple to the farmhouse and does all in his power to secure the fatal letter. He is followed there by his wife and Billy, while Barbara appears on the scene in order to bring about comfort to the newlyweds.

The result of many people located in the same house without each other's knowledge is that every one endeavors to conceal his or herself and complications of real funny nature follow. Albeit, the humor is implanted in practically everyone's troubles and this brings about a real sense of humor. Of course everything turns out right in the end, but for three hours the audience is kept in roars of laughter.

THE STRAND

Pretty Pola Negri is showing at the Strand the first three days of the week in "Mad Love," and while the title suggests a love story, the theme is not of the ordinary kind and it is indeed in practically everyone's troubles and this brings about a real sense of humor. Of course everything turns out right in the end, but for three hours the audience is kept in roars of laughter.

The result of many people located in the same house without each other's knowledge is that every one endeavors to conceal his or herself and complications of real funny nature follow. Albeit, the humor is implanted in practically everyone's troubles and this brings about a real sense of humor. Of course everything turns out right in the end, but for three hours the audience is kept in roars of laughter.

HOW TO FORGET TROUBLES

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

"TIZ" draws out all the poisonous exudations which put up the feet. Use "TIZ" now at your druggist, or department store. Don't suffer. BRIGHTON, Eng., April 10.—Discovery of the body of Miss Mary Plummer, 86-year-old recluse, here revealed the story of how she starved herself to spend all her money helping others. All her money went to charities.

FAMILY IN DUAL CRASH

BATHAM, Eng., April 10.—Just after Harry W. Fenwick was taken to the hospital in a motorcycle accident near here, a car containing four persons met a similar accident at almost the same spot. When they were taken to the same hospital it was discovered they were close relatives of Fenwick.

Smoking compartments are to be provided in the new wooden-winged line office and representing the fifth district of that company won out with a plurality of more than 30,000 votes over her nearest district competitor. Miss deLorey was opposed by girls in other offices in the Eastern division, which includes all states from Canada to Virginia along the eastern seaboard. She now goes with Miss Ann Morgan, vice president of the American committee as a guest to that committee for a six weeks tour of France, sailing about June 1st to inspect the work of the American committee throughout the devastated regions.

FORMER BANK TELLER SLAIN

B. F. Ballantyne of Salt Lake City Shot in His Home and Died in Hospital

Nephew of John M. Browning, Gun Inventor and John Browning, Jr., Held

Brownings Went to Ballantyne Home to Take Mrs.
Ballantyne Away

SALT LAKE CITY, April 10.—Benjamin F. Ballantyne, former teller of a local bank, was shot in his home yesterday after Mariner F. Browning, nephew of John M. Browning, famous gun inventor, and John Browning, Jr., called to take Mrs. Ballantyne, who is the inventor's daughter, away after alleged domestic difficulties. Mr. Ballantyne died in a hospital several hours after he was shot.

Police said Mariner Browning admitted he shot Mr. Ballantyne in self defense. Both the Brownings were placed in the city jail pending the outcome of police investigation.

In a dying statement, Mr. Ballantyne declared he was unmarried and had no revolver in reach at the time he was shot.

A family statement was issued last night by James B. Ballantyne, father of the slain man, in which he denied that there had been any trouble between his son and Mrs. Ballantyne. He declared that a complete investigation would be demanded and that the slayer would be prosecuted.

Details of Shooting.
OGDEN, Utah, April 10.—Details of the shooting of Benjamin F. Ballantyne at his home in Salt Lake City last night were given in a statement today by William H. Reeder, attorney, who was in the Ballantyne home when the shooting occurred. Mr. Reeder upon his arrival late last night from Salt Lake City immediately went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Browning, the parents of Mrs. Ballantyne, and told them the story of the shooting.

His statement follows:
"The Browning boys and myself went to the Ballantyne home shortly before noon yesterday. Ballantyne greeted us and shook hands. He told us he had not treated his family right during the last few weeks and asked us to destroy a bottle of liquor he had. John told him he should make the fight himself and said he should pour the liquor in the sink. This Ballantyne did.

"Ballantyne agreed that his family should go to Ogden until he had pulled himself together. This seemed satisfactory and Mrs. Ballantyne got herself and one child ready, and with her mother, who was there at the time, went out to the car to drive to Ogden.

"At the door he shook hands with me and then seeing his wife in the car, went to the automobile and opening the door, commanded his wife to get out and go into the house. She did, and Ballantyne shoved her along as they walked toward the house.

"Then Mariner and John followed them. Ballantyne rushed into his library where he picked up a gun from a book case. Then Mariner stepped toward John, who had a gun in his hand and told him to drop the gun and not to do anything like that.
"At that Ballantyne sawing the gun at John's head and the next instant Mariner fired a shot. The bullet entered Ballantyne's neck and he fell near the bookcase with the gun in his hands. I, meanwhile, was in the hall and was not an eye-witness to the shooting.

"I notified the police and Ballantyne was taken to a hospital and the two Brownings and myself went to the police station."

SIGNALS FOR AUTOMOBILES.
Complying with a vote taken at the annual town meeting, the Billerica authorities have adopted the "redneck" type of signal for automobilists on the state highways. The signal will be set 28 inches from the ground to conform with the state regulations. The town has purchased 10 of the 12-inch type and 10 of the 8-inch and these will be placed at dangerous spots along the highways in the town. The selectmen are also contemplating purchasing one or two of the beacon type signals that are in use in this city.

33 OF CREW PERISHED

Only Three Members of Crew Saved When Italian Steamer Sank Off U. S. Coast

HALIFAX, N. S., April 10.—Three of the 35 members of the crew of the Italian steamer Moncenale were all that were saved, when that vessel sank off the American coast last February.

This information, the first to be had since the vessel's last S.O.S. call, was picked up, February 18, was received today by the parents of Cecil Bevia, one of the crew, who wrote from Chicago, N. J., saying that he and two others had been picked up and taken to Panama City by the rescue steamer.
Details of the rescue were not made known.

Young Bevia wrote that the Moncenale was hurled to the bottom in a 12-mile-an-hour gale, sinking before other vessels could answer her wireless appeals. The steamer Carthage, crushed about the vicinity—latitude

25.55 north, longitude 65.22 west—for several days, without getting trace of the lost ship.

Alleged Bank Looter Arrested

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Coney C. Slaughter, alleged looter of the Mercantile National bank of Pueblo, Colo., and for whom the authorities have been searching eight years, was arrested last night at Phoenix-ville, Pa., and brought here for arraignment today before a federal commissioner. Department of justice agents who found Slaughter working in a sanitarium said that he had agreed to waive examination and return to Colorado at once. Slaughter is alleged to have embezzled more than $350,000 of the Mercantile bank's funds while acting as its cashier in May, 1915.

to exchange on the terms proposed although there is no reason to believe that the Cook company is more reliable than the others that have sold stock and from one cause or another failed to make good their promises to the stockholders. It is understood that Dr. Cook's plan was same as that adopted by some other concerns of a questionable character—namely to write to the holders of stock in other companies selling forth the attractive promises of the merger. Letters from Dr. Cook's company were received in Lowell and one man was about to invest largely when advised by a friend that he had better not. The government has arrested 26 men including Dr. Cook on the charge of using the mails with intent to defraud. It is alleged that the operations thus halted were planned to rob the public out of millions of dollars.

STILL BUYING GERMAN DYES

During the great war, American chemists were reported to have discovered many new dyes—so many, in fact, that trading in Germany for German-made dyes in the future would be wholly unnecessary. Many confident dye experts on this side of the Atlantic affirmed, in fact, that from this time on, no American textile manufacturers would ever have to buy a single pound of German dyes in the future, for we had discovered all of the secrets and had our trading fields all mapped out, which would work to the discomfort and ill-fortune of our erstwhile chemical brethren across seas.

It was intimated that because of the wonderful successes made by American chemists, plenty of proof was forthcoming that we had not only won the World War with arms, but had also captured the chemical industries of the future as well. All of which, of course, sounded very comforting to those who felt that perhaps the Germans were not quite so smart as we once thought they were.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

From the Fall River News, we learn that the chamber of commerce of that progressive city is considering the matter of choosing a transportation committee to handle the various traffic problems that come up from time to time. It is a good idea to have such a committee to assist the merchants in securing just treatment from the railroad. It is understood that during the past year the delays and abuses of railroad traffic have been greater than ever before and it is only by frequent conferences with the railroad officials that any relief can be obtained. The Lowell chamber of commerce has had a traffic committee for several years and we understand that it has done excellent work in securing needed improvements in the railroad service for this city. This committee has thus been a great help to the merchants and the community at large. The duties of a traffic committee are often quite exacting, having to do with transportation problems with which the general public is wholly unfamiliar. We have no doubt that such a committee can be as useful in Fall River as in Lowell if the railroad facilities in connection with that city are as complex as in the Lowell district.

LOCAL REAL ESTATE

We are appalled by a gentleman connected with one of the local savings banks that there is no truth in the claim that loans on real estate are more easily obtained in Lawrence than in this city. The fact that Lawrence speculators have bought largely of local real estate merely shows that they find better bargains here than in Lawrence. They pick up valuable property that with more or less repairs can be made to bring in a much greater revenue than at present. In this respect they are grasping opportunities which did not seem to appeal to local dealers or speculators. As usual, it is to be expected that when outside investors put their money in real estate here, they will take steps to increase its revenue producing qualities. Some of them, however, merely increase the rents, which is not calculated to help Lowell or to improve business for the people.

THE MATERNITY BILL

A decision has been rendered by Chief Justice Smyth of the District of Columbia court of appeals in the case of Massachusetts vs. Mellon, and the citizens' case entitled Brothman vs. Mellon, that both it will be remembered, are based on the assumption that the act of congress, known as the maternity bill, is an unwarranted exercise of power by congress and an infringement upon the rights of the states. Governor Baxter of Maine has just voted a measure providing for the adoption of this law and the state of Massachusetts awaits the decision of its constitutional court on the question of its constitutionality. The importance of this decision cannot be overestimated, inasmuch as if the decision be against the act then several other acts and bills of a similar kind will be equally outlawed.

SEEN AND HEARD

Entirely too many shady dealers are making clear profits.

Ask one for her hand and she may keep you under her thumb.

They are trying to stop cannibalism in South Africa, and it is best to send skinny missionaries.

Germans are so small you need a microscope to see them, and they ought to feel even smaller.

A Thought

The sacred books of the ancient Persians say: "If you would be holy instruct your children, because all the good acts they perform will be imputed to you."—Montesquieu.

The Poor Woman

"And what will you do with the striped kimono your son says he is sending home?" asked the town lady of the farmer's wife. "You may well ask, ma'am," replied the rustic. "I suppose I'll have to put it in one of the pigsties, but what I'm to feed it, goodness only knows."

A Strained Voice

It was a stage rehearsal. The principal actress came upon the stage in walking costume and started to sing her great song. "My dear," cried the manager, "surely you are not going to sing with your yell on?" "Of course I am," she replied. "I want to hurry off as soon as I finish. I want to meet a friend." "But singing with a yell on!" expostulated the manager. "Well, well!" he added, in a resigned tone. "I can't help it if you want to strain your voice!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Slight Mistake

The lady of the house had often asked her cook what her husband did, and the cook always replied that he was connected with a penitentiary in the capacity of a trustee. This seemed somewhat strange to the good lady, and one day she said as much to her husband. He thought perhaps he could get at the facts, so the cook was called in. "Mirandy, you say your husband is a trustee in the penitentiary?" "Yes, boss," she replied promptly. "Don't you mean a trusty?" the boss persisted. "Dat's it."

Fetted the Keeper

Verbosity and the "grand manner" will sometimes accomplish marvels. An elderly English actor with stately bearing, a melodious voice, went for a holiday to Sunderland. Fishing one day in a forbidden stream he was accosted by the keeper, who asked him by what right he dared to wield the rod and line in private grounds. "By what right?" answered the melodramatic one. "By that great right of instinct of the vulgar kind." The keeper stared at him for a moment, then touched his cap and said: "Beg pardon, sir, I didn't know that."

Didn't Learn Much

There had been complaints of overcrowding, so an official was sent out to make inquiries. Approaching one house, he knocked sharply, and the door was soon opened by the daughter of the house. "How many people live here?" he asked. "Nobody lives here," answered the girl. "We're only staying for a short time." "But how many are here?" persisted the man. "I'm alone. Father's gone for a walk and mother is—" "Stop! Stop!" exclaimed the official impatiently. "I want to know how many inmates are in this house. How many slept here last night?" "Well, you see, was the reply. "I had a toothache dreadful my little brother had the stomach ache, and we both took on so much that nobody slept a wink." Then the inspector said he would call again.

Did She Accept?

Miss Mildred Milville Mallison, the anti-vice worker, said in an address in Pittsburgh: "The freedom now granted to women is a gain, but it is also a loss. In one of my recent anti-vice campaigns I put up at a New Orleans hotel. Entering the breakfast room one morning, I found three fat men established there, each with a newspaper and a black cigar. Of course, the room was full of smoke. While waiting for my breakfast I coughed several times, but nobody took the hint, so I said to myself: 'If I always understood that New Orleans men were models of French politeness.' The three fat men were on their feet in an instant, smiling and bowing and scraping like so many monkeys. 'Pardon me, madam,' said they in chorus, and each opened and extended to me courteously a cigar case full of black cigars."

"To Die For One's Country"

When he who adores thee has left but the name
Of his faith and his sorrows behind,
Of say will then weep when they Darken the fame
Of a life that for thee was resigned?
Yes, weep, and however my foes may condemn,
Thy tears shall efface their decree
For heaven can witness, though guilty to them,
I have been but too faithful to thee.

With thee were the dreams of my Childhood, love,
Every thought of my reason was Thine;
In my last humble prayer to the Spirit above Thy name shall be mingled with mine.
O! bless are the lovers and friends who shall live
The days of thy glory to see;
But the next moment blessing that Heaven can give
Is the pride of thus dying for thee.

Herbert W. Horne, re-elected president of the Lowell Young Men's Christian association, speaking at the annual meeting of the association, held last night, stated that the financial statement showed a balance of $147.85 at the close of the year which ended in April. The previous year the sum registered on the right side of the ledger was $738.

The activities during the past year, under the direction of the general secretary, have shown a marked increase in every direction. The physical department, supervised by Clarence E. One hundred thousand men and boys attended the classes during the period covered by the report. Teams were entered in statewide competition in baseball, basketball, volleyball, swimming and other forms of athletics, generally coming through with honors. The "Learn to swim" campaign was particularly effective, 1000 boys being registered in this work.

Four hundred thousand is the number estimated who attended all of the social activities of the association during the past year.

The expenditures during the past year were, $52,311.81 and the receipts for the same period were, $53,787.02, covering every activity of the association. The work of the boys' department and the religious activities were up to the standard of former years.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Saw John P. Hall on the street the other day. Nothing unusual about that, of course, but the genial John was wearing a broader smile than usual, and that's why I mention him. Mr. Hall, who lives in Seventh street, is the proud father of a large family and it was only last week that his eldest daughter, Edwina, played a conspicuous part in the Lowell day exercises in the high school. Then last Saturday it was announced that Master Leonard had been awarded the Everhart pencil for his essay in connection with the grammar school contest conducted under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. Do you wonder, now, why John P. should be wearing a broader smile than usual?

The past winter, now fading into memory, is revived once in a while by days when the wind blows cold from the northwest and the old overcoats are hastily pulled out of the moth bags and donned again. Other things which revive pleasant, and other memories of the winter crop up now and then. It was only last Sunday that I met a young girl, hardly more than a baby, who was standing with her sister beside a puddle of water that had been up to the previous day, a little private snow-slip of hers. She was bemusing her fate, because the snow had gone. So it is impossible to get a brand of weather that will please everybody.

Regarding the story in a recent issue of The Sun concerning first-aid equipment at the local postoffice, Postmaster Delisle told me today that it was only a day or two after the publication of that story that a woman wounded her way to the stamp window and told the clerk there that she was suffering from some ailment, insomnia, I believe, and asked him what the best cure for it was. Although stunned with surprise at the question the clerk was able to answer the woman politely, and she went her way, apparently satisfied. But, first, all means just what it says, and, second, it does not include first-aid equipment of any other disease, and the stamp clerk is not a physician although there are few men outside of the medical profession better fitted to handle first aid cases.

There are a great many people, especially the sporting public, who regard the opening of the baseball season as the best criterion of spring. For that class then, tomorrow will witness the real beginning of spring for the baseball season will officially open on the Textile campus tomorrow afternoon with the Holy cross college nine from Worcester opposing Lowell Textile. As this is the first time in the history of the school that it has come to Lowell, local alumni are planning to turn out in large numbers and give the boys a big reception. It is probable that a supper and entertainment will be furnished the visitors in the evening.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Revolving Books on Stocks
Fall River News: Nothing is harder than to teach some people that you cannot, never could, and never will be able to get a dollar's worth for 50 cents. The drummer, the visionary, who believes that there are any number of short cuts to prosperity, is always ready to "fall for" the smooth-talking salesman. These glib talkers will dwell on the proximity of rich oil wells to the property they are interested in, on the stories of Ford and Edison, and relate tear-compelling tales of fellows who had a chance to get in on these ventures, but who turned down the offers—and died poor. Every effort should be taken to educate folks not to buy pretty paper certificates that never will be worth anything. But there will always be some who are anxious to be fooled out of their hard-earned money, and who will be fooled, in spite of everything.

The Foster Case
New Bedford Standard: The effect of the Foster case, it seems to us, is to place the communist party and Foster individually in the position of not amounting to much, and such a position is fatal to their influence. It puts them in the position of having talked big at the start and of having sung very small at the finish. Foster in jail might have been a great card for the communist propagandists; Foster at liberty by virtue of a quibble of which he was eager to take advantage is anything but a hero.

PLANNING BOARD ORGANIZES WITH MR. O'HEARN AS CHAIRMAN

PATRICK O'HEARN,
Chairman

RAYMOND M. HUMPHREY
Secretary

Raymond M. Humphrey is Elected Secretary—Board Will Endeavor to Have Citizens Co-operate in a "Cleaner-City" Campaign

The Lowell planning board recently appointed under an ordinance by Mayor John J. Donovan met last night and organized with Patrick O'Hearn as chairman and Raymond M. Humphrey as secretary. Members present in addition were Benjamin S. Pouzner, Michael A. Lee and Dr. George O. Lavoie and Dennis J. Murphy, chairman of the board of public service; Francis A. Connor, inspector of public buildings and Clarence M. Weed, chairman of the park commission, members ex-officio.

The board felt one of its first concerns is a permanent cleaner-city campaign and efforts will be made to have citizens co-operate with the various city departments in a program which will tend to improve conditions of thoroughfares and public parks. A program of procedure will be presented at the next meeting by a committee headed by Mr. Weed and Mr. Pouzner.

Preparations for the erection of a garage on land near the entrance to First street boulevard caused considerable discussion and it was brought out that this is a tract that the city might want to purchase at some future time. It was voted to have Mr. O'Hearn and Inspector Connor appear before the city council on the matter and oppose the granting of a permit for the contemplated garage.

On suggestion of Mr. Murphy the board voted to request the mayor for an appropriation of $1000 to meet incidental expenses and allow the board to function properly.

It was not deemed expedient to send a delegate to the 15th annual conference of city planning boards to be held in Baltimore on April 30, May 1 and 2 and it was finally decided to instruct the secretary to secure from the state house all pamphlets, books and other matter pertaining to such a board.

Regular meetings of the board will be held at 8 p. m. on the second Monday of each month.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem THE ESSENTIAL

Oh if you write a story, a story brave and fine
With thrills in every chapter and art in every line,
Still all its glow and glamor will be but fugitive,
Unless you put some love in—for Love's what makes it live.

And if you sing a carol with lovely words and true
That ripple like the waters beneath a silver moon,
Its magic will not tarry or linger very long
Unless you put some love in, for Love's what makes the song!

What if your deeds be splendid, what if your fame be wide?
These are but transitory and will not long abide;
However you be landed, however fortune smile,
If love itself be lacking—they are not worth the while.

So if with pen you labor, or brush or spade of mud,
And if you fashion statues, or towers proud and tall,
Whatever be the talent or artistry that's yours,
Be sure to put some love in—for Love alone endures.

$52 to $78
a year

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will out down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

Here's one reason: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

There really is no smoke in the world so altogether satisfactory.

A "Bull" smoker never switches. You can't interest him in any new experiments. He carries his preference wherever he goes.

This is because the special flavor and aroma of "Bull" Durham make a cigarette that can not be duplicated.

PRIEST DERIDES SPIRIT PICTURES

Rev. Fr. de Heredia Describes Conan Doyle's Method as
"Trickery"

Photographic Phenomena Easy to Produce Without Help From Supernatural

NEW YORK, April 10.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "spirit pictures" showing about the tomb of the British soldier in London on Armistice day, were derided yesterday by Rev. Fr. de Heredia, S. J., who denounced the photographic department of the Evening World that he could cause similar phenomena to appear on photographic plates without touching them, and without any aid from the other world.

Fr. de Heredia, a Catholic priest at Mexico City, has made a long study of spiritualism as well as the tricks employed by stage magicians and sleight-of-hand performers.

He described his method of producing weird photographs as "trickery" and devil and not spiritualism at all, because as between living persons here on earth and the spirits that have passed from the body, there is not and cannot be a control from the living world.

The Evening World published two of Fr. de Heredia's pictures, one a photograph of William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league upon which had been superimposed the shadowy picture of a living person and a trace of Sir Arthur, and the other a photograph of himself upon which he placed the form of a tin baited doughboy with his rifle at "present arms."

Three members of the newspaper's staff who were present at the demonstration testified Fr. de Heredia did not touch the plates and did not approach closer to them at any time than three feet.

When he had finished his demonstration he proved how simple it all was by whispering the secret to a staff photographer in the group, who thereupon made some "spirit" pictures unaided.

Fr. de Heredia issued a challenge to spiritualists to attempt to produce a phenomenon that he could not duplicate, provided he was given "the multiple time to prepare as they have presumably allowed themselves."

ALL-RUSSIAN CHURCH

CONCLAVE ON APRIL 15

MOSCOW, April 10.—(By the Associated Press) The fight of the Russian church to save itself from total extinction in the communist-directed, nation-wide campaign that is now being waged against orthodox worship and organized religion of all kinds, will center at Moscow on April 15, when the first all-Russian church convocation since the bolshevik revolution is scheduled to meet.

Higher clergy who believe it possible for religion to exist side by side with the non-religious communist government, have called the assembly, with the consent and support of the government, in hope of finding a way out of the difficulties that hedge in the church as a whole.

SISLER LOST TO CLUB

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—George Sisler, first baseman of the St. Louis American league club, may be lost to the club for this season, if not for all time, according to reports made here today.

A severe attack of influenza left Sisler's eyes seriously affected. He is said to be affected with double vision as a result of the illness, and after attempting to play this spring, rested in the hope that the trouble was only temporary. After a reasonable time, however, he found the affliction severe and now under treatment to keep his eyesight from being affected.

From other sources, it is understood, there is a strong probability that Sisler will submit to an operation in the near future.

HARVARD TO BAR NO

RACE NOR CREED

CAMBRIDGE, April 10.—Neither race nor creed shall bar any student from Harvard college, which shall be kept open to all who would learn, but those who do enter must pass a rigorous examination of their qualifications, the coarseness of the institution decided yesterday.

The two problems that arose last year, one affecting negroes and the other Jews, bringing with them a torrent of criticism, much of it critical, from alumni and financial contributors to the college, thus were disposed of after nearly a year of discussion by especially selected committees.

The negro question arose when Roscoe Conkling Bruce, himself a Harvard graduate, was informed that a student prepared for Harvard at Harvard, could enter the college, but could not live in the freshmen dormitory, was given a special dispensation.

The second question was less clearly set forth and the Jews were not out of the racial issue, but in all the controversy their race has been made the point. The discussion centered around an assertion that Jews were the student body and some called for steps to limit their number.

"In the administration of rules for admission," the committee on a selective admission recommended "Harvard college maintains its traditional policy of freedom from discrimination on grounds of race or religion."

Up to the capacity of the fresh-man hall, members of the orchestra, man class shall reside and board in the fresh-man hall, except those who are permitted by the dean of Harvard college to live elsewhere. Corner of Hall and Aiken Streets Where Accident Is Believed to Have Happened

Dracut Man Admits - He Drove Car

The police believe that the violin player was actually knocked down by the automobile in the vicinity of Hall and Aiken streets early last night, and that the driver of the car was the man who was seen in the car with the victim.

The actual discovery of the auto car victim was made by Miss Eleanor M. Sutton, who lives at 884 Westford street, and who was on the way home with a party of Vocational school friends, passing through Webster street, which is a narrow road, and has a very poor roadway for vehicular travel and nothing in the shape of real sidewalks. Close by are the large city dumping grounds, a dreary area with only a few new homes in the immediate vicinity.

Sutton, who was formerly employed by the Lowell Electric Lighting company on Market street, but now teaches school, heard someone groaning not far from the sidewalk and at once surmised that a human being was in distress. Badly frightened, she notified Charles A. Tranter, of 34 Arcadia street, a railroad baggage-master, who happened along about the same time.

Investigation proved that the means of pain came from a man lying sprawled out on the gravel and stones just below the road walk. Police headquarters was promptly notified and the victim, who turned out to be Bisson, the well known aged violin player, was hurriedly removed to St. John's hospital, where he died shortly before 1 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness.

Bisson was known to thousands of Lowell men and women. He was a peculiarly slooped walk. He was a man of cleanly habits, upright in living and a strict religious man, regularly attending St. Jean Baptiste church on Merrimack street. He never used intoxicating liquors or tobacco, his friends said.

He had been married twice, both wives being dead. There were no children but he had one adopted son, Joseph Toon, who resides in Hartford, Conn., also three nieces, Mrs. Diana E. Gelineau, of 61 Dracut street; Miss Laura Racicot, of 32 Mammoth road, and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, of 263 Cumberland rd. The latter were all astonished by the tragedy news, all testifying to the man's gentle, unassuming character and his habits of living at the boarding house on Merrimack st.

Civil War Veteran
The landlady of the musician's home, Mrs. Rebecca M. Korman, 758 Merrimack street, told The Sun this morning that Mr. Bisson was a Civil war veteran, having been a member of several bands and playing both the cornet and the violin. He had many Lowell pupils for a decade or more, but at late hours of the evening (about 10 o'clock) he was playing in a band.

"I am 80 years old and shall play no more," he told his landlady only a few days ago.

The police investigation headed by Chief Atkinson, aided by Capt. Petrie, located the body of the victim (Victim) immediately after the news of the tragedy came in. Today the police endeavor to locate the missing Bullock roadster, its driver and occupants.

The police first visited the tragedy victim's home, where they learned that Bisson was never in the habit of going very far from his boarding place on Merrimack street. He was a frequent visitor to numerous small stores and lunchrooms in that vicinity and was liked by everybody.

In Dying Condition
It is believed that Bisson could not have been very far from his home last night and but a short time before he was found in a dying condition on the dump on Webster street, for at 5 o'clock he ate his supper in a lunchroom close by his boarding house and as late as 7:15 p.m. ate a meal at the restaurant of Fortunate Heroux, at the corner of Cabot and Aiken streets.

The police have established the fact that Bisson was never in the habit of leaving his home, and the vicinity of his boarding place at any time and was not addicted to wandering about the city.

He received a monthly pension of $50 and the money came as usual last week. Much of it was quickly spent by the war veteran, for he had to obtain sustenance and articles for his personal needs, which he trusted in some of the stores, always paying his bills promptly and seeming to depend wholly on the small monthly pension, which had been coming recently every four weeks. Formerly the pension was smaller and was received only once in three months.

No Attempt at Robbery
The police are confident that no attempt was made to rob the musician by those who carried him to Webster street and left him there shortly before 8 o'clock last evening. A gold watch was found on the victim's person, but very little money. It is said that he had spent most of his last pension check.

Mrs. Maude Upmeyer and Mrs. Duncan McKinnon of 37 Webster street, where the body was found, saw the man get out and look over the open area nearby. The men carried electric flashlights, they said. There appeared to be much excited talk and at least two men and possibly three men were seen. One of the men brought the musician to the lonely spot.

Other residents of the neighborhood say they saw two Bullock cars apparently keeping closely together, go down Princeton boulevard and turn into Webster street and stop. One car was a light-colored car and the other a dark-colored car. The car with the light-colored car had no roof.

Edward Goodkin, a carpenter, of 45 Webster street, saw both cars. One car disappeared later toward North Chelmsford. The other went in an opposite direction. Residents of Webster street say that shortly before 8 o'clock last night one of the Bullock cars was seen by Goodkin, returned to the lonely road and stopped with lights on for nearly 15 minutes, while men got out and looked in the bushes near the road as if hunting for something.

Chief Atkinson said this noon that the police have no concrete evidence of foul play, but he believes that the musician had been robbed. He believes it was a case of automobilists injuring a pedestrian, taking him away in their car with the intention of removing the man to a hospital, then, becoming frightened, decided to dispose of the victim in a far locality and effect escape from notoriety.

Witnessed Accident

Leo L. Tremblay, a truck driver for Joseph Carrier, ice cream manufacturer in Dracut, and residing at 10 Aiken avenue, claims to have witnessed a automobile accident on the corner of Hall and Aiken streets last evening and his description of the victim of the accident corresponds with that of Oliver C. Bisson, who was found dying in the bushes at Princeton street at about 8 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Tremblay informed The Sun this noon that Tremblay went out delivering ice cream in the early part of the evening and when he returned to his employer at about 10 o'clock, he informed his employer that he had witnessed a very bad accident at the junction of Hall and Aiken streets.

Mr. Tremblay is alleged to have said that just as he was to round the corner of Hall and Aiken streets he saw a large car with the curtains drawn, strike a short old man, knocking him to the ground. The machine was brought to a stop, but the engine of the car was kept running with the chauffeur at the wheel. One of the occupants alighted and carried the unconscious form of the old man into the machine and the car sped along through Aiken street towards Merrimack street. Mr. Tremblay also stated that he had to take a sharp turn in order to avoid colliding with the big machine. He said he did not interfere as he thought the injured man was being taken to a hospital.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers Amelie Archambault & Sons in Merrimack street.
